Special to The World.

STILLWATER, Okla., May 11.—Col. Frank D. Wickham, professor of military science and tactics at Oklahoma A. & M. college, has been detailed commanding officer of the summer camp of the reserve officers training corps, infantry, at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky. Members of R. O. C. units in the fifth and 10th districts will attend this summer camp which begins June 21 and ends August 3. The fifth district comprises the states of Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, and the 10th district is made up of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana. Attendance at the summer camp is limited to 10,000. The R. O. C. unit at Oklahoma A. & M. college numbers 230 at this time and a great many of them will attend the camp. Colonel Wickham will return to A. & M. after August 3. He expects to make a preliminary trip to Camp Taylor within a few days to start the organization and plan the establishment of the camp. He is already selecting his staff for the summer.

Attendance at the camp will be limited to three classes of students. First, members of senior units who are in the last course; second, members of senior units who are in the advanced course; third, members of junior units who at the end of the present year will have had not less than two years of training in an R. O. C. unit. All students who attend must be recommended by the professor of military science and tactics. The minimum age limit is 16 years. Attendance this year is compulsory only for those members of the senior division who will be graduated next year. Oklahoma A. & M. college has a senior unit of the R. O. C. Mileage at the rate of 3 1/2 cents per mile will be paid from school to camp. Returning the student will receive mileage to his home if it is not farther than to the school. Substistence will be furnished during the encampment. Students will not be enlisted and will not receive pay. Those whose attendance is compulsory must attend the camp in order to be eligible to receive reserve commissions upon graduation. The summer camp offers the student a splendid opportunity for improvement both in military and educational lines.

Eighty-Two Per Cent of Oklahoma People Belong to No Church; State-Wide Mission Work Planned

Figures gathered by religious statisticians show that 82 per cent of the population of Oklahoma are without church affiliation—that is only 18 people out of 100 belong to a church.

This computation is made after credit is given every denomination for its full membership. Protestant, Catholic and Jew the country people. Most other states break 50-50 on the church question, according to Bishop Thurston of the Episcopal church, who thinks there is something radically wrong in Oklahoma. Apathy toward the church is not restricted to the cities, where it is claimed the advent of the motor car with its Sunday pleasure riding, tennis and golf, has drawn people away from the church. There is such a little difference between the city and the rural church attendance that it is difficult to draw distinction. The church appears no more to the country people than it does to the people in town. In behalf of the latter it is pleaded that many rural residents live in remote districts where they have little opportunity to attend church.

Home Missions Needed. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that only 18 per cent of the people belong to the church and this is a record about as bad as some of the reports from the foreign mission fields. It has aroused the clergy, not only of the Episcopal church, but of other denominations, to the importance of inaugurating a missionary movement at home.

To this end the religious leaders of the state will urge that a large part of the missionary funds being raised by the different churches be used in evangelizing Oklahoma, with the purpose of bringing the church membership in this state at least up to the national average.

How to attract people to the church that they be enlisted for permanent service, is a problem which is being given the most serious attention of the ministry. It is easy enough to get people to come to church by giving novelty to the program or by making the church attractive to the community, but to interest the people so that they will get the benefit of the serious side of the church services and become actual workers for the moral uplift of their fellows is a task that challenges the best of skill.

Keep Up Sunday Schools. It is stated by one great churchman, who recently visited Tulsa to speak in behalf of the Meth-

NORMAN, Okla., May 11.—A large increase in the enrollment of the school of pharmacy in the University of Oklahoma is expected next fall as a result of the act passed by the last legislature requiring that candidates for registered pharmacist must have taken at least one year's work in an approved school.
